

Foster Care and Community Programs – Maryland

Description

KidsPeace Foster Care and Community Programs (FCCP) is a community-based, family-focused, child-centered and strength-based therapeutic foster care program for children who need placement outside of their family of origin because of abuse and/or neglect. Our program serves children who require specialized services for emotional, behavioral and/or medical issues. We work closely with our partners in the local departments of social services to ensure safety, well being and permanency for children. The practice model utilized within FCCP is based on the principles of the resiliency model in which we strive to increase the protective factors and reduce the risk factors for children in order to enhance the opportunity for successful life outcomes. Because we realize that healing and growth happen within the context of the family, FCCP provides extensive training and ongoing support to those families selected to become foster parents. The program carefully matches children with foster families to promote stability of placement for a child. The program adheres to the principle that the first placement is the best placement. Additionally, the program supports healthy and enduring connections of the child with his/her biological family including siblings, parents, extended family and other caring adults and peers and considers them integral members of the treatment team.

Population Served

The program serves males and females from infancy to 20 years of age. Treatment services address a wide variety of social and emotional difficulties, medical issues, developmental delays, learning problems, psychological and psychiatric issues and behavioral challenges. The program has also worked successfully with pregnant teens and teenage mothers. The program is inappropriate for children who are actively suicidal, active fire-setters or who are in need of 24-hour awake supervision.
