KidsPeace names Ann M. McCauley Vice President of Development

SCHNECKSVILLE, PA (September 22, 2016) - KidsPeace announced that it has named Ann M. McCauley to the position of Vice President of Development, effective immediately.

Ms. McCauley, of Bucks County, PA, has extensive experience in children's education, non-profit management and promotion. Prior to joining KidsPeace, she served as director of leadership giving for Heritage Conservancy in Doylestown, PA, a community-based organization dedicated to preserving and protecting the natural and historic heritage of Bucks and Montgomery counties.

In her role at KidsPeace, Ms. McCauley will oversee fundraising, grant writing, donor development, community relations and government relations functions for the organization. She will be based at KidsPeace's headquarters in Schnecksville, PA.

"We're delighted to welcome Ann to our management team, as the role that she will play as Vice President of Development is a key part of our organization's plans for the future," said William Isemann, KidsPeace President and CEO. "Ann brings the right combination of experience, enthusiasm and energy to face the challenges in growing our support among donors and other stakeholders," he added.

Ms. McCauley served as a classroom teacher, international marketing director for Sylvan Learning Centers, founder of The Broken Barn, a business designed to support and market the work of local artists in southeast Pennsylvania, and executive director of the Bucks County Audubon Society, before joining Heritage Conservancy. She earned a bachelor's degree in anthropology and education from the University of Delaware.
